NO NUKES, NO WARS, NO WALLS, NO WARMING:

ONE STRUGGLE, MANY FRONTS—LINKING CAUSE AND EFFECT

June 18 | 1-5 p.m.
Location:
Brooklyn Friends Meeting
110 Schermerhorn St, Brooklyn, NY

The process that initiated negotiations for a ban on nuclear weapons has raised awareness of the catastrophic consequences of nuclear weapons. But despite growing mobilizations for social and economic justice and moving the global economy to a path in balance with the planet’s ecosystems, in the nuclear-armed states there still are no significant movements for the elimination of nuclear weapons. To build a global movement to abolish nuclear weapons, we must also better understand and raise public awareness of the renewed danger that nuclear weapons could be used in warfare. And if this movement is to garner enough power to be successful, it must make common cause with those working for a world that is more fair, more democratic, and more ecologically sustainable.

This conference will offer an array of views that can provide a starting point for the discussion as we seek to place the moment that has brought us to negotiations for a nuclear weapons ban in a broader context, and to look beyond and outside the negotiations among governments to the kinds of movements we must build.

Confirmed speakers include: Hiroshima Hibakusha, Iram Ali, Andrew Lichterman, Vincent Intondi, Marzhan Nurzhan, Kate Alexander, Alyn Ware, John Burroughs, with five invitations pending.
